

Bill Gates' Plan to Use Invisible Ink to Tattoo Vaccination Status into Children's Skin

by Brian Shilhavy | December 20, 2019

Image Source.

Karen Weintraub, writing for the Scientific American, a pro-Pharma and pro-vaccine publication, has just reported that a group of Massachusetts Institute of Technology researchers have just developed a method of embedding a person's vaccination record directly into their skin using a special dye that is invisible to the naked eye.

Keeping track of vaccinations remains a major challenge in the developing world, and even in many developed countries, paperwork gets lost, and parents forget whether their child is up to date. Now a group of Massachusetts Institute of Technology researchers has developed a novel way to address this problem: embedding the record directly into the skin.

Along with the vaccine, a child would be injected with a bit of dye that is invisible to the naked eye but easily seen with a special cell-phone filter, combined with an app that shines near-infrared light onto the skin. The dye would be expected to last up to five years, according to tests on pig and rat skin and human skin in a dish.

The system—which has not yet been tested in children—would provide quick and easy access to vaccination history. (Source.)

Not only does this technology embed medical information into a person’s skin, it will also make vaccine deliveries into the body much easier, so that medical professionals are not even needed to administer the vaccines.

The research, conducted by M.I.T. bioengineers Robert Langer and Ana Jaklenec and their colleagues, uses a patch of tiny needles called microneedles to provide an effective vaccination without a teeth-clenching jab.

Microneedles are embedded in a Band-Aid-like device that is placed on the skin; a skilled nurse or technician is not required. Vaccines delivered with microneedles also may not need to be refrigerated, reducing both the cost and difficulty of delivery, Langer and Jaklenec say. (Source.)

Bill Gates is reportedly the one who requested that this technology be developed, and his Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation funded the project.

The work was funded by the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation and came about because of a direct request from Microsoft founder and philanthropist Bill Gates himself, who has been supporting efforts to wipe out diseases such as polio and measles across the world, Jaklenec says. “If we don’t have good data, it’s really difficult to eradicate disease,” she says. (Source.)

Since this technology will allow anyone to embed medical information directly into a person’s skin that can be simply read with a cell phone and an app, privacy issues are certainly legitimate concerns, and the developers of this technology even acknowledge this:

The approach raises some privacy concerns, says Prausnitz, who helped invent microneedle technology and directs Georgia Tech’s Center for Drug Design, Development and Delivery.

“There may be other concerns that patients have about being ‘tattooed,’ carrying around personal medical information on their bodies or other aspects of this unfamiliar approach to storing medical records,” he says.

“Different people and different cultures will probably feel differently about having an invisible medical tattoo.”

Combating “Vaccine Hesitancy” Could be More Easily Accomplished with this New Technology

Who controls vaccine information in the corporate-sponsored mass media?

For anyone truly following the vaccine debate, and researching vaccines for themselves instead of simply being spoon-fed what government health agencies want you to believe about vaccines, and the tightly-controlled and censored information disseminated by the corporate Pharma-funded “mainstream” media, this should certainly be a wake-up call as to where the whole vaccine issue is heading.

The unified message by those who derive their income and wealth from the pharmaceutical vaccine industry is that the “science is settled” when it comes to vaccines, and that ALL vaccines are safe and effective for ALL people at ALL times, and that those who oppose this agenda must be silenced, as they are a threat to public health. And all those who refuse vaccines should be forced to accept them, for the sake of “the greater good.”

News sources such as Health Impact News that dare to publish anything else that questions this narrative are attacked and labeled as “fake news,” even if our sources for documented vaccine injuries and deaths come from the U.S. Government’s own statistics.

“Vaccine hesitancy” is now seen as one of the major threats to public health, and is even labeled as a “mental illness” that needs to be cured. In January of this year (2019) the World Health Organization (WHO) ranked “vaccine hesitancy” as one of the top “Ten Threats to Global Health in 2019.”

While the WHO is mainly funded by membership countries and purchases and delivers vaccines worldwide through member organizations such as the United Nations Children’s Fund (UNICEF), the Bill and Melinda Gates foundation contributes more funding for vaccine research and distribution through the Vaccine Alliance GAVI than any single country or other entity, and may even exceed the funding provided by all of them put together.

With funding from one of the richest men of the world, and his alliances with Big Pharma and world governments, is it really a “conspiracy theory” to state that they want to have worldwide dominance in forcing the world’s population to be vaccinated, even if it is against their will?

Do we not already see this in progress here in the U.S. where State legislatures are trying to pass new laws to remove vaccine exemptions and force everyone, particularly children, to be injected with the vaccines that they choose?

When does the “conspiracy theory” stop being a “theory” when the facts support the concerted effort to vaccinate everyone on the face of the earth as real, and is no longer a “theory”?

And with this new technology now in place, funded and ordered by Bill Gates himself, to be able to secretly vaccinate and document that vaccination history with invisible ink directly into someone’s skin, is it “far-fetched” to think that this technology will be used by those in authority who demand that everyone be vaccinated with the vaccines chosen to be mandatory even without consent? Will this become a major tool to combat “vaccine hesitancy” and force everyone to comply?

How is this any different from the medical experiments conducted under Nazi Germany without consent during WWII and condemned at the Nuremberg Trials?

Will it take another World War to stop this drive towards world dominance via mandatory vaccinations?

I don’t recall ever writing another article that ended with so many questions as this one, but these are the questions that every American should be asking right now, no matter what side of the vaccine debate you currently stand.

Comment on this article at VaccineImpact.com.