Since starting MedicalKidnap.com in 2014, we have documented frequently how doctors, especially Child Abuse Pediatricians, participate in medically kidnapping children.

We have published an eBook that documents the history and current role of these pediatricians:

We have also frequently reported how the U.S. Foster Care system is known as the main pipeline for Child Sex Trafficking.

Shockingly, two stories in the mainstream news today show that some doctors with access to children are sexually abusing those children.

How common is this? Doctors are revered as trustworthy members of our society here in the U.S., but these two stories, one about a dentist and one about a pediatrician, highlight that our trust in doctors may often be misplaced.

Excerpts:

WALNUT CREEK — It started with a bizarre nighttime incident, in a dimly lit area by an office building's dumpsters, where a man allegedly drove up, attempted to pull a custodian into the car, and offered $30,000 to buy her two prepubescent daughters, there by her side.

What began as an attempted kidnapping case has mushroomed into something that horrified even seasoned sex-crime investigators. According to court records, police have uncovered evidence that girls as young as 9 are being bought for sexual servitude in the Bay Area and linked a suspect to a cache of child pornography, evidence of overseas sex tourism, and a stash of hidden video cameras disguised as everyday household objects.

That suspect is an Oakland man named Cassidy Lavorini-Doyle, 36, an oral surgeon who currently sits in a Contra Costa County jail awaiting trial on charges of human trafficking, child porn possession, and attempted kidnapping. After his arrest, the state Attorney General's office moved to revoke Lavorini-Doyle's dental license, saying the allegations gave state prosecutors "grave concerns" about him interacting with children.

Lavorini-Doyle treated children through his job, and was licensed by the state to use anesthesia. Authorities say they are still investigating the possibility that he molested patients...

Excerpts:

A former Dayton doctor has been indicted on 145 felony child pornography charges.

The Ohio Attorney General Office said Dr. Gregory Ramey, 70, has been charged with illegal use of a minor in nudity-oriented material, pandering obscenity involving a minor, attempted pandering sexually-oriented matter involving a minor, and tampering with evidence.

"This egregious abuse of the patients' trust, not to mention the public's trust, from a doctor is gut-wrenchingly horrible," Yost said. "Young children are innocent, sweet and trusting – vulnerably fragile and in need of special protection."

Dr. Ramey was identified as the source of electronic downloads of child pornography, according to a press release.

He was placed on administrative leave by the Dayton Children's Hospital when they learned of the investigating, but was terminated by the hospital.
